Excerpt: . . . DAIRY FARMING IN NATAL. By Percy D. Simmons, J. P. , one of the Judges of the Natal Agricultural Society Judges Association, and one of the Pioneers of well-bred stock in Natal. Some six years ago, when the Natal Agricultural Journal was first started (in 1898), I expressed my views regarding stock and dairy farming in Natal. In spite of the war, and the depression that, naturally, consequently followed, the optimistic views I then took of the Colonys prospects as regards stock rearing have been more than realised. I have seen no reason to change my views, though the matter of stock and dairy farming is one which, I know, provokes very conflicting opinions. From what is often heard and read, an immigrant might be led to believe that Natal, as a country in which to farm, compared poorly with the rest of the...
