It may seem to be a long story from defective children to adult inebriates, but the adult inebriates were children once. We have got too much into the way of considering children as a race apart; we do not remember that they are a product of the last generation and will be the producers of the next. It is by so incompletely remembering this that we do so much charitable mischief. I have dwelt at some length upon this question of drink in connection with weakness of mind, because I am sure that no more important contribution to our knowledge of the subject has for some time been made than this definite evidence, put forward...
